

BLINDFOLDED

The Unwilling Hero

In Startling Adventure and Fascinating Mystery

A young man arrives in San Francisco at dusk. He knows but one person in all that great city—a cousin, a man of his own age. Within the hour the cousin is murdered and the stranger is plunged into the midst of an intricate conspiracy. Fate takes him by the hand. Luck points the way. Circumstances, blind, but relentless, rob him of his rightful name and cheat him out of his identity. They make him the champion of a cause he never heard of, the leader of conspirators he never saw and the lover of a girl he dreads to win. Cunningly attacked by unknown assailants and as cunningly guarded by unknown defenders, he is the storm center of a dramatic and relentless struggle.

Both the reader and the hero are "blindfolded." Both are quite as innocent of the past as they are ignorant of the future. The present, full of mystery and adventure, is all they can handle. But very gladly and together they fight against an enemy unseen, with friends unknown, and for stakes undreamed of.

Those qualities, whatever they are, that in mystery most fascinate us; that in adventure most charm us, are the qualities that dominate the pages of

For the Woman That's Fat.

A Detroit physician says that the cheapest and safest mixture for a fat woman who wants to get thin is one-half ounce Marmola (get it in the original half-ounce package), one-half ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and three and one-half ounces Syrup Simplex. The proper amount to take is a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

These ingredients may be obtained from any druggist at small cost and make a combination that is not only excellent as a fat reducer, being able, it is claimed, to take off a pound a day without causing wrinkles, but is also a splendid help to the system as a whole, regulating the stomach and bowels (where the fat person's troubles begin), and clearing the skin of pimples and blotches. No exercise is required to help the remedy in its work and, best of all, no dieting is necessary while taking it—you can eat what you like.

Foolhardy Fame.
An Italian, whose name is of no consequence, has climbed to the summit of one of the three highest peaks of the Mont Blanc range, called the Dame Anglaise. This peak is 11,400 feet high, and the last 1,000 feet of the ascent was over a smooth and practically perpendicular rock. It required 12 hours to make it, and when done the man of misdirected energy and enterprise actually thought he had achieved fame. But, after all, what sort of fame is it? The man had risked his life to accomplish what? To be able to say he had climbed to a spot on the mountains that no other person ever did? It is the sort of fame gained by the youth who fired the Ephesian dome. It will be remembered as an act from which no useful consequences can flow and in which life was recklessly imperiled in order that a fool might cry out, "I did it!" In the feat there was no contribution to science, to morals or to the general knowledge of the world.

Thought Brakeman Steered.

The little girl had become well acquainted with automobiles long before she had ridden in a railroad train, and she had even attempted to help her father steer on the family's automobile trips. When she clambered on the steam cars for the first time she was much excited and her questions fairly tumbled over themselves. Finally she noticed the brakeman turning the wheel between the two cars. She watched him approvingly for a few minutes and then as he suddenly left the wheel she grasped her father in alarm.

"Tell him to go back, papa; he must go back," she shouted.

Papa looked at her in amazement. "Who must go back, Dorothy?" he asked.

"Why, the man who steers," she said breathlessly. "He's left the wheel and we'll run off the track."

A Delicate Distinction.

Manager—I thought you wrote me you had a full house at Bad Dog in Arizona.

Business Manager—So we did.

Manager—Why, our star tells me there were only about 25 people in the place and every man Jack was drunk.

Business Manager (gently)—Well? I didn't say we had the house full; I said we had a full house.

The Author's New Home.

"Like your new house?"

"There are six houses in the row, believe?"

"Yes, mine is the last one."

"Good cellar?"

"One of the six best cellars."

Plain Living.

How totally different is the effect of a plain, rational and nutritious diet upon the man who eats to live. His appetite requires no pampering, and yet he enjoys his food, and, at the same time, what the gourmand is deprived of, he is thoroughly alive to all the pleasures of life and able for its duties.—Health Record.

For Sale or Rent.
